What is a biometric screening?

The biometric screening is generally part of a complete wellness check done by a doctor or clinic, including a blood draw. Results of the biometric screening can help to identify various health risks and can allow the patient to work with a physician to address those risks. Results include:

- Blood pressure (systolic and diastolic)
- HbA1c
- HDL and total cholesterol
- Non-fasting glucose
- Height, weight, and waist circumference
- A nicotine test to screen for tobacco use

Is the biometric screening a full blood draw?

Yes. It will be a full venipuncture collection, which is a traditional blood draw, with biometric measurements. Two vials of blood will be drawn. The screening will include a nicotine test to screen for tobacco use.

Why does Honeywell require biometric screenings?

Honeywell is committed to the health, safety and wellbeing of our employees and their families. We believe completing these screenings gives you access to important information about your physical health, and is essential for your continued physical wellbeing.

There will be opportunities for employees at our larger facilities to schedule on-site screenings as has been done in prior years. Please be on the lookout for communications from your local HR team if your location is participating in on-site screenings. Certain sites may have restricted access to campus for spouses/domestic partners.

Why does Honeywell apply a surcharge to tobacco users?

Improving health-related outcomes and the quality of life for employees while managing health care costs continues to be a challenge for U.S. employers and employees. Honeywell is self-insured, meaning the Company pays for employees' health care claims. A surcharge for tobacco users can help drive health care costs down, as smoking leads to diseases and causes health care costs to rise. Per the New England Journal of Medicine, health care costs for smokers at a given age are as much as 40 percent higher than those for nonsmokers. To help offset those higher costs, employees and spouse/domestic partner tobacco users enrolled in a Honeywell medical plan will pay $1,000 more than non-tobacco users in 2026.

Is there a cost for the HealthResource tobacco cessation program?

HealthResource programs, including tobacco cessation support, are offered at no cost to Honeywell employees and their eligible family members.

What if I enroll in a tobacco cessation program and then fail to quit? Will I be charged the tobacco surcharge in 2026?

No. If an employee or covered spouse/DP enrolls in a HealthResource tobacco cessation program and is not successful at quitting, the surcharge will not apply in 2026.

What if I use a nicotine product such as a nicotine patch, nicotine gum, or e-cigarette, which do not include tobacco?

If you are using a nicotine patch, nicotine gum, or e-cigarette, you can contact HealthResource at 1-800-944-4887 to establish you are not a tobacco user by October 10, 2025. This information will be accepted on the honor system and is subject to Honeywell's Code of Business Conduct and Ethics Policy.

How do I indicate my tobacco use status if I submit my biometric screening results on a Physician Results Form?

If you have your physician complete the Physician Results Form and submit the form to Quest Diagnostics by October 10, 2025, you can self-report your tobacco status, and your doctor can indicate if you use tobacco products on the form. This will be accepted for applying or avoiding the tobacco surcharge in 2026. The Physician Results Form is accessible on the <https://my.questforhealth.com/> – registration key: Honeywell2025. All required fields on the Physician Results Form must be filled in for the form to be accepted by Quest Diagnostics.

How is tobacco use tested in the biometric screening?

Nicotine will be tested through the biometric screening, which is a blood draw. The blood is tested for the presence of cotinine, an indicator for nicotine, which identifies whether an individual is a tobacco user. The biometric screening tests for the presence of cotinine from smoking or chewing tobacco or using a nicotine product such as the nicotine patch or gum.

If I am exposed to secondhand smoke but do not use tobacco, will I test positive for nicotine?

The nicotine test is designed so that the measurement to test positive for cotinine, which is an indicator for nicotine, is above the level you would expect to see for individual exposed to typical secondhand smoke.

Is it legal for Honeywell to impose a penalty if I am a tobacco user?

Honeywell's requirements and wellness program have been carefully designed to be compliant with the law. The federal government has determined that health care plans can charge a different premium for those who smoke or use tobacco products.
