Honeywell understands the college admissions process is time consuming and complicated. The Bright Horizons benefit offers a variety of college admissions and financial resources to support your family's needs at no cost to you.

How can I connect with a Bright Horizons College Coach expert?

Once registered, you can schedule an expert guidance session via our portal. We encourage you to set up an appointment as questions arise or following a webinar to learn how the webinar content relates to your family's unique needs.

Can I bring my spouse, partner, or child to any live events or meetings with an expert?

Your family members are welcome to attend live events and personalized meetings, provided this does not violate your employer's security policy.

What is the Learning Center and how can it assist my family?

Bright Horizons College Coach offers an online learning environment that's available 24/7. You can access videos, frequently asked questions, and in-depth articles related to any Bright Horizons College Coach curriculum topic. The Learning Center is also a great way to involve your whole family, as you can create a profile for your spouse or partner and your student, so they can access our library of resources at any time.

How is this different from the assistance we receive from our high school's guidance counselor?

A guidance counselor must provide a broad range of support beyond education advising a large group of students — the national student-to-counselor ratio is 408:1. Our experts are former college admissions and financial aid officers who offer a far more focused perspective based upon their experience within college admissions and aid offices — and are available year-round on a one-to-one basis.
